Electrical Voltage

Electrical voltage in Thailand is 220 volts so if you have any 110 volt appliances, be sure to use a voltage converter.

Restroom Information

Toilets in Thailand are different from the western ones. Basically, there are two types of them. The first one is exactly like the western convention in that you can sit on the toilet seat. The second one is known as the squat toilet which has no toilet seat. In this case, you have to squat on it. This basically involves you standing over the hole, and bending down. One may think that the Thai squat toilet is rather primitive. However, research indicates that the squat position has more health benefits than the westernized seated option.

Additionally, Thai toilets are often equipped with a Thai bathroom hose or a water sprayer. A good jet-stream of water simply does the job better than paper. Thais generally use paper only for drying. Many foreigners have now, after falling in love with the hose, bought and taken them back to their own countries.

In some squat toilets, there may be no hose. Usually, there will be a water tank sitting in an elevated position, containing plumed water for flushing, and a bucket or a bowl for transferring water from the source to the squat toilet.

Sometimes, no paper is provided in the toilet, you may need to carry your own toilet paper, or simply buy it either from a vending machine or a staff member at the counter in front of the toilet entrance. Most of Thailand sewage systems are not designed to take in toilet paper or nonbiodegradable waste. You are supposed to deposit it into a trash bin or a wastebasket.

Thai Greeting

The “wai” is the traditional manner in which Thais greet each other. This is a gesture where the palms of the hands are pressed together, prayer like. Thais will give the wai as a sign of respect as well as a greeting farewell gesture to their seniors.

Cultural Awareness

Although Phuket is a major tourist destination creating a typical “beach culture” of sorts, the fact remains that Phuket is in Thailand and Thai culture is fundamentally a conservative one.

- Buddhist monks, seen everywhere in their saffron robes, are highly respected. Women should be careful to remain a comfortable distance away from monks as they are forbidden contact with women. Visitors to Buddhist monasteries must take their shoes off before entering a temple.
- Do not touch a Thai person’s head because it is considered the most important part of the body.
- Try to maintain your head at the same level as others. If other people are seated on the floor, you should avoid standing over them for a prolonged period of time.
- Do not stick your feet out in front of you. Do not point with your feet or put them up on a table in front of where you are sitting.
- When eating with Thais, several dishes are usually ordered. Take a bit of each dish at a time. Do not pile the food on your plate. Thais generally eat with a spoon and a fork with the spoon in their right hand. Chop sticks are used for noodle dishes. To be hygienic, it is recommended that people use shared spoons for shared dishes.

Climates

Phuket has a tropical climate, more specifically a tropical monsoon climate, with a dry season from November to April and a rainy season from May to October. Average temperatures are quite consistent year round. In May, the average temperature is between 24.2 °C. and 32.5 C.

Getting Around

Car Rental Service:

There are numerous car rental services in Phuket. Cars or jeeps can be rented at the airport, in Phuket Town, and at most of the more popular beaches. Be aware that only Commercial First Class Insurance provides full coverage on rental cars, as opposed to limited personal or third party only insurance. Most international car rental agencies will offer this insurance, some only for those with a valid international driver's license, while local companies may or may not. You may wish to request a copy of the car rental service insurance policy and ensure that it states "For Commercial Use." Regardless, inspect rental vehicles prior to rental and drive with caution, particularly as traffic in Thailand can be quite confusing, especially the habit of Thai motorcycle riders that ride on the wrong side of the road.

Motorbike Rental:

For around 150 to 300 baht per day you can hire your own 100-150 cc motorbike, which will typically require you to leave your passport as a deposit. Be sure to inspect bikes prior to rental and ride with extreme caution as rental motorbikes are not normally insured and accidents are frequent. Helmets are required by Thai law.

Motorcycle Taxis:

This service costs approximately 60 baht / person / trip to travel via motorcycle taxi around Phuket Town.

Songtaew and Tuk-Tuk:

Songtaews (or "Pho thong" in the local language) are operated along Ranong Road in Phuket Town to various destinations including most beaches. The cost ranges from 30 baht to 50 baht / person / trip. Normally the service is provided from 7:00 am until 5:00 pm daily.

Tuk-Tuks can be chartered for travel between the beaches and Phuket Town or between different beaches; however, rates are negotiable and will cost at least 300 baht from campus to Patong Beach, 350 baht to Karon and Kata Beaches, and 400 baht to Nai Harn and Kamala Beaches.

Taxi Meter:

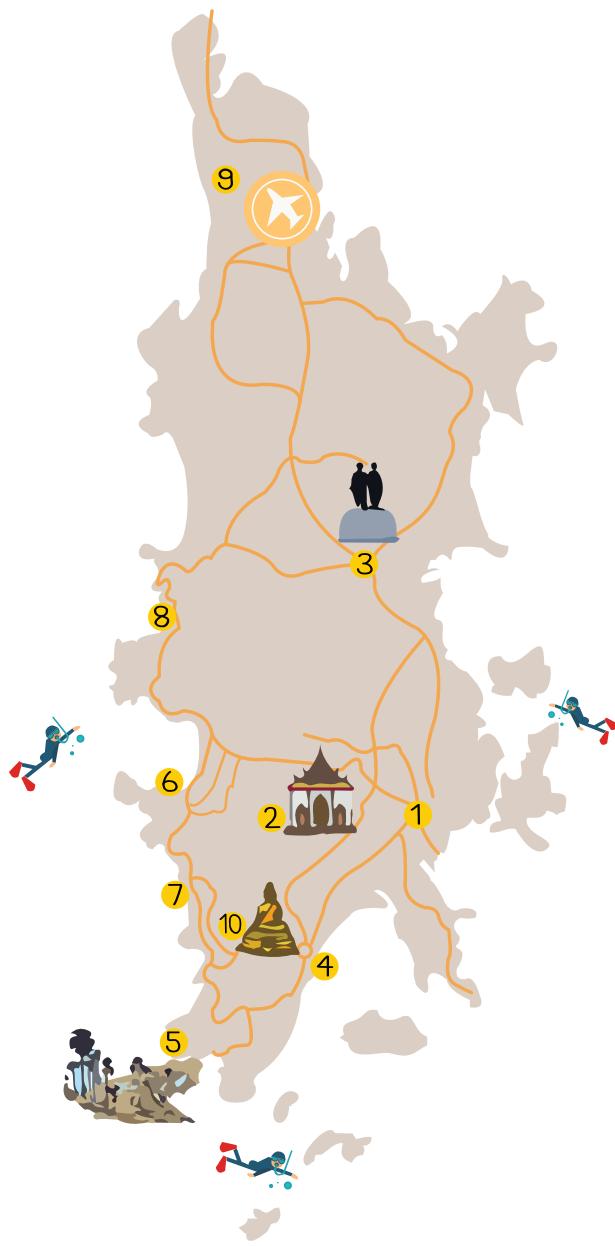

Visitors can call +66 (0)76 232 157-8 to get a metered taxi that will take them anywhere in Phuket. The metered fare will include a 100 baht surcharge.

Boat to islands near Phuket:

Boats to nearby islands can be found at the following ports:

- Rawai Beach: An old local port, it is from here that longtail boats depart for nearby islands such as Koh He, Koh Racha Yai, Koh Mai Thon, Koh Lon, etc. The chartered price depends on the distance.
- Ao Chalong: The largest port of Phuket servicing all kinds of boats, including cruisers of tour companies that organize package tours to other islands.
- Ao Makham: Located near Panwa Cape, this port is only for cruisers and container ships.
- Boat Lagoon Port (Ao Sapam): This port is for traveling boats of tour companies.
